ADOPT A TREE

Why adopt a tree?

Adopting a tree is a great way to help the planet. Trees absorb carbon dioxide and exude oxygen. The carbon dioxide that trees absorb is sequestered by them for many decades. Trees in upland areas form a symbiotic relationship with rain and clouds and hold water on the land, leading to better water quality for everything downhill and better soil stability in the forests and stream beds. Trees act as habitat for birds, bats, and insects, and are part of a holistic native ecosystem.

In addition, adopting a tree is a great gift idea. It's a gift that keeps on giving, and your adoption certificate will be a potent reminder of that gift. Adopting a tree is also a superb way to celebrate a birth, or to commemorate a loved one.
